A compound wall in Coles Park has developed cracks

The city is yet to come to terms with the senseless loss of lives after a recent compound wall collapse during rain. But If the number of notices issued to property owners by Bengaluru Central City Corporation (BCCC) engineers about compound walls that are in dilapidated condition are any indication, it seems property owners do not care a fig about such lapses. As monsoon looms, authorities are racing against time to take preventive measures to avoid more loss of life.

The BCCC Executive Engineer has issued 30 notices to property owners in Shivajinagar and Shanthinagar Assembly constituencies directing them to remove such walls posing danger to the public. Lax property owners include defence establishments.

At the HAL quarters near Marathahalli, a compound wall has developed wide cracks. The wall may collapse when it rains heavily in the near future. "I am happy that the HAL management took measures to increase the compound wall height to prevent people throwing garbage into the compound. But the management must also inspect

But, animal activists want officials to assign feeding sites for stray dogs in high-conflict areas rather just about anywhere

Corporations under the Greater Bengaluru Authority are gradually increasing the number of stray-dog feeding spots in their areas.

Recently, the Central City Corporation and the West City Corporation have added 10 and 80 new feeding spots within their respective limits. With this, the total stray dog feeding spots in the city have reached nearly 600.

Out of these, while the Central City Corporation has a 100 spots identified, North has 70, South has 68 stray dog feeding spots, East has 179, and West City Corporation now has 175 feeding spots.

However, welfare workers say the number of feeding spots identified by GBA is precious little.

"None of the feeders in our circle have been assigned feeding spots by GBA yet. Most of them continue to feed in their usual old spot, and these feedings so far have been eventless. However, GBA should focus on assigning feeding sites in high-conflict areas instead of putting these signs up indiscriminately. Assigning a feeding spot should not be a 'check-box' exercise," said Harini Raghavan of Citizens for Animal Birth Control and a feeder.

Activists also reported that the installed

Trading stocks or your peace of mind?

Experts warn of emerging mental health issues linked to compulsive stock trading, including loss of control, emotional dependence, interpersonal conflict, withdrawal-like symptoms and more

The growing popularity of mobile trading platforms and easy access to financial markets are giving rise to a new mental health concern of problematic stock trading behaviour. Mental health professionals at the Service for Healthy Use of Technology (SHUT) Clinic at the National Institute of Mental Health and Neurosciences (NIMHANS) say they are increasingly seeing individuals whose lives have been severely affected by compulsive stock trading.

A recent case report published in PMC (PubMed Central), titled A Multimodal Approach to Addictive-Like Behaviour in Stock Trading: A Case Report, documents the experience of a 29-year-old employed man whose stock trading spiralled into an addiction-like pattern, resulting in debts of nearly Rs 80 lakh and significant psychological distress. The individual had begun stock trading four years earlier through a mobile trading platform as a secondary source of income. Initially successful, he made profits for about a year through options, futures and intraday trading. However, over time, trading became the central focus of his life. He constantly monitored markets, spent hours developing trading strategies and became increasingly preoccupied with recovering losses.

As losses mounted, he experienced anxiety, stress, guilt, shame, hopelessness and disrupted sleep. Despite repeated attempts to stop, he found himself unable to control the urge to trade. To continue investing and recover losses, he borrowed money through loan applications and concealed his financial situation from family members. His behaviour was reinforced by beliefs such as "I can recover my losses in the next trade," leading to repeated cycles of loss and further investment.

Researchers noted that the case met several characteristics associated with behavioural addiction, including loss of control, preoccupation, emotional dependence, tolerance, withdrawal-like symptoms, interpersonal conflict and relapse.

Dr Manoj Kumar Sharma, Professor of Clinical Psychology and Coordinator of the SHUT Clinic at NIMHANS, said that cases linked to stock trading have become increasingly visible in recent years. "Earlier, we used to see more gambling-related cases. Now, we regularly receive stock trading-related cases at our clinic, typically around two to three every month," he said.

According to Dr Sharma, most individuals seek help only after suffering substantial financial losses and exhausting all available sources of money.

"Many of these individuals initially tell family members that they are stressed because of work. However, families gradually notice signs such as sadness, social withdrawal and changes in behaviour. In several cases, families help clear their debts, but the individual continues chasing losses and returns to trading, often accumulating even more debt," he explained.

He noted that families often become aware of the problem when losses exceed Rs 20 lakh or when debts become impossible to manage. The treatment approach at the SHUT Clinic focuses on understanding the reasons that led individuals into excessive trading and assessing associated mood disturbances and functional impairments. Family members are also involved in the assessment process.

"We use a multimodal intervention. One of the key strategies is stimulus control, where access to smartphones is restricted and patients may be advised to switch temporarily to feature phones without online transaction capabilities. We also work on craving and urge management through techniques such as recognising urges, distraction methods, deep breathing exercises and seeking support from others," Dr Sharma said.

Most individuals seek help only after suffering substantial financial losses and exhausting all available sources of money, says doctor

The intervention further addresses stress, mood-related concerns and the development of a structured, productive lifestyle with family support and supervision. Following the multimodal behavioural intervention, the patient demonstrated a marked reduction in trading-related behaviours, as evidenced by decreases in trading frequency, time spent on trading and cognitive preoccupation with trading.

Countdown begins for VK Education Fair 2026

The countdown has begun for the VK Education Fair 2026, a two-day event designed to help students and parents navigate the crucial admission season following the announcement of CET results. With the Karnataka Examinations Authority set to open option entry for Engineering and other professional courses from June 10, thousands of aspirants are preparing to make decisions that could shape their academic future.

Expert guidance

To address questions on option entry, seat allotment, college selection and admission strategies, Vijay Karnataka is organising the VK Education Fair on June 11 and 12 at the Jnana Jyothi Auditorium, Dr Manmohan Singh Bengaluru City University, Central College Campus. KEA Executive Director H Prasanna will be among the key speakers, offering insights into the counselling and admission process.

One destination

More than 35 educational institutions from across Karnataka will participate in the fair, providing students and parents with direct access to admission teams, faculty members and academic experts. Visitors can explore courses, eligibility criteria, placement opportunities, scholarships and campus facilities, all under one roof.

Course choices

The fair will feature information on Engineering, MBBS, Ayurveda, Dentistry, Nursing, Architecture, Diploma, MBA, MCA, BTech, BSc, Business Management, Digital Marketing, Robotics, Tourism and several other academic and professional programmes. Students can compare institutions and seek personalised guidance before finalising their choices.

Bus ticket prices shift gear

Passengers travelling on private day-service buses will pay more after operators revised ticket fares upwards by 3% to 8%. The fare hike, which is already in effect, applies to all private stage carriage services. The increase comes amid rising diesel prices and mounting operational costs, according to the Federation of Karnataka Private Bus Owners' Associations. Association members said the decision was unavoidable as fuel prices have risen sharply over the past year, while expenditure on vehicle spare parts, tyres, toll charges, employee salaries and taxes has also increased. Around 5,300 buses operating under the federation will implement the revised fares. Members added that concessions currently offered to school students will continue. The revised rates have been fixed within the limits permitted under government norms, which allow operators to levy an additional cess per kilometre on passenger fares. — BMB

Farmer attempts suicide outside Vidhana Soudha

A sandalwood farmer from Chikkamagaluru allegedly attempted suicide near Vidhana Soudha on Tuesday, claiming prolonged delays in compensation for land acquired for a National Highway project had left him in severe financial and mental distress.

According to police, TN Vishukumar, a farmer from Haliyur village in Tarikere taluk, attempted to hang himself from a tree using a towel-like cloth at around 12.45 pm. Police personnel stationed nearby intervened and detained him before he could carry out the act.

Vishukumar alleged that 1.5 acres of his land were acquired by the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) in 2016. He claimed compensation for the land and sandalwood trees was initially estimated at around ₹62 crore, but a valuation prepared by the Forest Department assessed it at only ₹62 lakh, significantly reducing the amount payable.

Police said he has been protesting over the issue for several years. In February, he was detained after cutting branches from a sandalwood tree outside Vidhana Soudha to draw attention to his demand for compensation.

Officials said a notice has been issued, a report submitted to the court and further proceedings initiated. Investigation is under way. —BMB

5 held for storing explosives at quarry

CRIME FILES

Five people have been booked for allegedly storing and using explosives without authorisation at a granite quarry in Yerapanahalli village on Bengaluru's outskirts.

Avalahalli police registered the case following a raid on Venkateshwara Granite Crusher in the early hours of June 4. According to a complaint filed by Head Constable Shivu M, officers on night patrol received information from local residents about unauthorised blasting operations and the storage of explosive materials at the quarry.

Police raided the premises at around 4 am and allegedly discovered detonators and other materials used for rock blasting. During questioning, workers identified as Vikas, Sandeep and another employee reportedly told officers that the materials had been arranged by quarry owner Venkataramana Reddy and crusher manager Lokesh Reddy for quarrying operations.

Investigators said the accused failed to produce licences or authorisations for possessing, storing or using the materials. Police also alleged that the explosives were stored without mandatory safety measures, posing a potential risk to life and property.

The materials were seized and cases registered against Venkataramana Reddy, Lokesh Reddy, Vikas, Tulasidhar and Sandeep under relevant provisions of the Explosives Act, Explosive Substances Act and Explosives Rules. Further investigation is under way. —BMB

Worker electrocuted during pole repair

A 28-year-old technician died after suffering an electric shock while carrying out maintenance work on an 11 kV power line near SBI Junction in Electronics City Phase I. Police have registered a negligence case against a contractor, company officials and BESCOM personnel.

The deceased, Bandaru Esudasu, a native of Andhra Pradesh, had arrived in Bengaluru about a week earlier and was employed by GSK Power Tech Pvt Ltd, a contractor responsible for maintaining BESCOM power infrastructure. According to the complaint, Esudasu and a co-worker were repairing an electricity line on BESCOM Pole No. LB-1930 at around 5 pm on June 6, when he came into contact with a live wire and suffered a severe electric shock. He was left hanging from the pole before colleagues and local residents rushed to assist.

Personnel from Fire and Emergency Services, along with an ambulance team, brought him down and shifted him to a nearby hospital, where doctors declared him dead on arrival. The complaint alleges safety measures were not followed before work began. Electronics City police have registered a case and launched an investigation into the death. —BMB

Metro expansion contrast: Trains arrive, work lags

Despite train arrival, Bengaluru Blue Line faces delays as civil works, electrical systems and viaduct construction remain incomplete across multiple sections

Even as Bengaluru's operational Yellow Line continues to await its full complement of metro trains, the city's under-construction Blue Line has already received its first train set, creating a striking contrast in Namma Metro's expansion journey.

The six-coach train, manufactured by BEML at its Thippasandra facility, recently arrived at the Baiyappanahalli depot and is expected to undergo preliminary testing. Another train set is likely to reach the city in the coming weeks. The arrival marks an important milestone for the 58.19-km Blue Line connecting Central Silk Board and Kempegowda International Airport, but the corridor itself remains far from ready for operations.

The development has drawn attention because the Yellow Line between RV Road and Bommasandra, despite being operational, is still running with only 10 trainsets and awaiting five more coaches to improve frequency. It had remained ready for months with stations, tracks and systems in place but was delayed due to train delivery issues. Now, the situation appears reversed with Blue Line trains arriving while key infrastructure work continues.

The Blue Line, one of Namma Metro's largest projects, will connect Silk Board to Kempegowda International Airport via KR Puram, Nagawara and Hebbal, passing through Bengaluru's busiest IT and commercial corridors. BMRCL plans to launch the first phase between Central Silk Board and KR Puram, covering 19.75 km and 13 stations by year-end, though the timeline is increasingly under scrutiny.

Depot upgradation and viaduct construction still pending for Blue Line readiness

While track-plinth casting on the Silk Board-KR Puram stretch has reached around 80 per cent of completion, significant portions of track installation, station construction, electrical works and systems integration remain pending. Progress on the KR Puram-Airport section is slower, with track-related civil works still at an early stage.

Further complicating matters, the Baiyappanahalli depot upgrade, which will house and maintain Blue Line trains, remains incomplete. Key viaduct and track infrastructure needed for trial runs is also unfinished, raising doubts over scheduled testing. These delays have cast uncertainty over BMRCL's December target to open the Central Silk Board–KR Puram section.

Commuters who depend on the Outer Ring Road corridor say the arrival of the train is encouraging but does little to ease their daily struggles. "It is good to see the train arrive, but commuters cannot travel in a coach parked inside a depot. What we need is the entire corridor completed as quickly as possible," said Rohit N, a daily commuter.

"For months, we heard that the Yellow Line was ready but there were no trains. Now, the Blue Line has a train but not enough tracks. As commuters, we just want projects to be completed in a coordinated manner." said Priyanka S, a daily commuter. Arun Kumar, a frequent traveler, said delays are becoming a recurring theme. "Every few months there is a new target date. The Blue Line is crucial because it connects major employment hubs. Thousands of people are stuck in traffic every day and cannot afford further delays."

> "For months, we heard that the Yellow Line was ready but there were no trains. Now, the Blue Line has a train but not enough tracks. As commuters, we just want projects to be completed in a coordinated manner
> – Priyanka S, daily commuter

Experts said that for now, while the first Blue Line train has arrived in Bengaluru, much of the infrastructure it is meant to run on is still under construction. Whether the corridor can meet its planned launch schedule will depend on how quickly the remaining works, testing and approvals are completed in the months ahead.

Four nabbed with drugs worth lakhs

Following a tip-off, police learned that banned narcotic substances were being sold in Marathahalli, Pulakeshinagar, Bharathinagar and Bommanahalli. Raids were conducted and four persons were apprehended. Of them, three were from other states and one was a local resident. Officials seized 10.2 kg of ganja, 20 grams of MDMA, 10.03 grams of methamphetamine, 2.5 litres of codeine cough syrup, and a car used in the offence, amounting to a total seizure value of Rs 7.47 lakh. The market value of the narcotic substances is estimated at Rs 14.94 lakh. During interrogation, the accused admitted they traded banned substances to earn quick money and sourced them through interstate and local suppliers. Police are tracing the unidentified suppliers. — BMB

Two stolen vehicles recovered, one arrested

Police officials from Shivajinagar Police Station recovered two stolen vehicles worth Rs 2.50 lakh and arrested one person in connection with the theft. According to police, a complaint was filed on April 29 after a vehicle parked outside a house went missing overnight. During an investigation, police traced a suspect near Sultangunte Road on June 1.

During interrogation, the accused admitted to stealing another two-wheeler and led police to both stolen vehicles parked in an open space near Colony Hill Road. The accused was produced before the court and remanded in judicial custody on June 2. — BMB

Tip-off leads to prostitution bust

Officials of the CCB Women Protection Squad received a tip-off that prostitution was being carried out in rented homes in Doddappa Palya, Rudramma Layout and Chikkabanavara on May 20. Raids were conducted at the identified locations, during which two women allegedly engaged in prostitution were rescued and one woman was taken into custody. During questioning, the detained woman confessed that she contacted men seeking prostitution services, confirmed availability over the phone and facilitated the activities. She was handed over to Chikkabanavara Police Station officials for further legal action along with a case report. — BMB

No ID, no entry at K'taka bars

Following Karnataka Home Minister Priyank Kharge's directive to crack down on establishments serving alcohol to underage individuals, Director General and Inspector General of Police MA Saleem on Tuesday issued a circular enforcing strict age-verification norms at liquor-serving establishments across the state. The circular directs police units to enforce a "No ID, No Entry" policy at pubs, breweries, bars, clubs, lounges, restaurants and other outlets serving alcohol. Patrons must produce a valid government-issued identity document, including Aadhaar, Voter ID, Passport, Driving Licence or PAN card, to verify their age before entry or service.

Citing provisions of the Karnataka Excise Act, 1965, and related rules, the circular reiterates that liquor cannot be sold or supplied to persons below 21 years. It also prohibits serving alcohol to mentally unsound or intoxicated persons, those suspected of involvement in riots or breaches of public peace, and certain officials while on duty or in uniform. The DGP warned that violations could invite licence suspension or cancellation, financial penalties and criminal prosecution. Establishments must maintain CCTV cameras at entry points and preserve footage for at least one month. Police units have also been directed to conduct awareness campaigns and submit compliance reports within seven days. — BMB

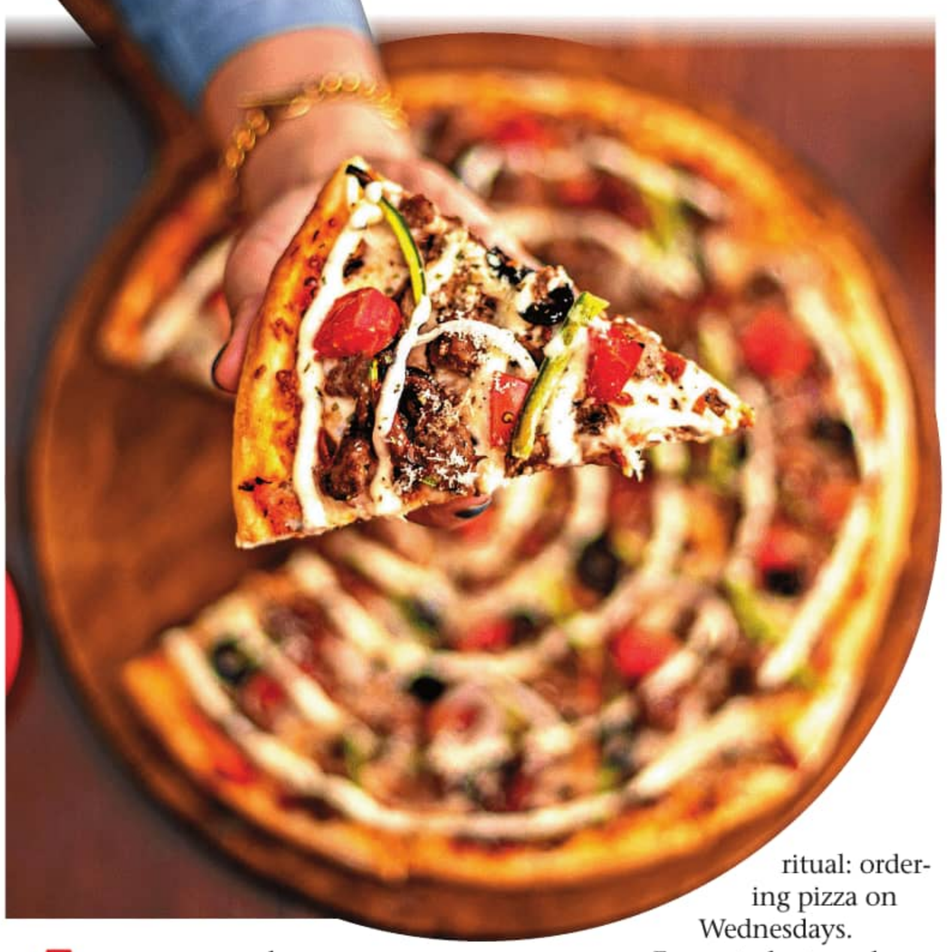
Why Bengalureans Love Pizza Wednesdays?



As monsoon showers continue to drench the city and traffic crawls through waterlogged roads, many Bengalureans are finding comfort in an unlikely midweek ritual: ordering pizza on Wednesdays.

From students and young professionals to families looking for a hassle-free dinner, Wednesdays have quietly emerged as one of the busiest days for pizza deliveries across Bengaluru. The reason is simple. Popular pizza chains and food delivery platforms roll out attractive midweek offers, making it easier for customers to indulge without stretching their budgets. For many residents, the combination of rainy weather, discounted prices and the convenience of home delivery has made pizza the go-to comfort food during the monsoon season.

"I usually cook during the week, but Wednesdays are my cheat days," said Kavya Kumar, a marketing executive from Indiranagar. "Most pizza brands have buy-one-get-one deals or combo offers. With the rain outside and work-from-home days becoming common again, ordering a pizza feels like the perfect treat." The trend is especially visible among Bengaluru's large population of young professionals who often seek quick and affordable dining options in the middle of a busy work week.

Nitin Gowda, a software engineer from Whitefield, said Wednesdays have become a tradition among his colleagues. "Our team has a standing pizza order every Wednesday. The discounts make it economical, and honestly, nothing beats hot pizza when it's pouring outside." Food industry observers say weather plays a significant role in influencing consumer choices. During the monsoon, residents are more likely to stay indoors and prefer foods that are warm, filling and easy to share.

"Pizza ticks all the boxes during rainy weather," said college student Shreya Reddy. "It's served hot, has a variety of flavours and works equally well for individuals, couples or large groups. The aroma of melted cheese and freshly baked crust is incredibly comforting when it's cold and rainy outside."

Delivery executives also report a noticeable spike in pizza orders during rainy evenings, particularly on Wednesdays when promotional campaigns are active. A manager at a popular pizza outlet said the midweek rush often rivals weekend demand. "Customers actively wait for Wednesday deals. During the monsoon, the numbers increase further because many people prefer ordering in rather than stepping out." Families are also embracing the trend. With schools, offices and daily commutes becoming more challenging during heavy rainfall, pizza offers an easy dinner solution.

"We used to reserve pizza for weekends," said resident Anand Kumar from Jayanagar. "But now the Wednesday offers are too good to ignore. The kids love it, and it saves us the effort of cooking after a long day." Food vloggers suggest that comfort foods gain popularity during gloomy weather because they provide a sense of familiarity and warmth. "Rainy days often encourage people to seek foods associated with relaxation and enjoyment.

Monsoon MIA, KRS left counting every precious drop this season

Weak monsoon inflows leave Karnataka reservoirs under pressure as authorities balance drinking water security, irrigation demands and interstate commitments

A view of the Krishnaraja Sagar reservoir, where storage has dropped significantly compared with last year

KRS storage has dropped sharply from last year's levels, prompting close monitoring of rainfall forecasts amid concerns over future supplies

With the southwest monsoon yet to make a significant impact across the Cauvery catchment, water levels in the Krishnaraja Sagar (KRS) reservoir have fallen to 81.36 feet, raising concerns over long-term water management. The reservoir, which has a full reservoir level of 124.80 feet, currently holds only 11.399 TMC ft of water against its total storage capacity of 49.5 TMC ft.

The contrast with last year is stark. Thanks to an excellent monsoon in 2025, inflows into KRS began increasing in the first week of June. On June 6 last year, the reservoir level stood at 107.68 feet, with inflows reaching 6,513 cusecs. The dam was filled by June 26, following which Chief Minister Siddaramaiah offered the traditional Bagina to the Cauvery on June 29. It was the first time in the reservoir's history that the ceremonial offering was made in June. This year, however, inflows have declined dramatically. The reservoir is currently receiving only 528 cusecs, while 436 cusecs are being released to meet drinking water requirements. Officials say the existing storage in the KRS and Kabini reservoirs is sufficient to meet urban drinking water needs even if rainfall remains weak for another two months, although irrigation releases remain uncertain.

The declining storage has also revived concerns about the reservoir approaching its dead storage level. While gates have been installed up to the plus-50-foot level to facilitate water releases for drinking and irrigation purposes, water availability becomes increasingly constrained once the level falls close to 60 feet. At that stage, water pressure reduces significantly, slowing the outflow from the reservoir. Officials warn that when KRS reaches dead storage, only around 4.5 TMC ft of water remains, much of which cannot be effectively utilised.

Adding to the challenge is Karnataka's obligation to release Cauvery water to Tamil Nadu. Under the existing water-sharing arrangement, the state is required to ensure an annual release of 177.25 TMC ft. With inflows remaining weak and reservoir levels falling, water managers are closely monitoring rainfall activity across the Cauvery basin over the coming weeks. For Bengaluru, which depends heavily on Cauvery water for drinking purposes, officials maintain there is no immediate cause for concern. However, a prolonged delay in monsoon rains could place additional pressure on reservoir management, particularly if inflows do not improve significantly during June and July. The coming weeks are expected to be critical in determining both irrigation prospects and long-term water availability across southern Karnataka.

"The Malnad catchment region is unlikely to receive significant rainfall during the week of June 8–14, as weather models indicate that the Low-Level Jet (LLJ), a fast-moving stream of moisture-laden winds from the Arabian Sea that plays a crucial role in driving monsoon rainfall over the Western Ghats is not showing signs of strengthening. A weather circulation over the Bay of Bengal may be required to activate the Somali LLJ and push more moisture into the Ghats. While there could be a brief increase in LLJ wind speeds to 35–40 kmph on Tuesday and Wednesday, the system is expected to weaken again thereafter," according to an update posted by Namma Karnataka Weather on X.

the existing compound wall and take suitable measures to ensure pedestrians' safety," Madhava Rao S, a pedestrian.

Near Prasanna Theater on Magadi Road, a barricade sheet hangs precariously. Neither the owner of the property nor the authorities concerned have taken any measures either to set the barricade sheet or replace it with new one to avoid accidents. "It is frightening to walk on the footpath due to the barricade sheet. It will benefit many pedestrians if the property owner or the authorities take suitable measures," said Muniyamma S, a conservancy worker.

The wall collapse at Bowring and Lady Curzon Hospital compound wall collapse claimed seven lives on April 29 when heavy rain lashed the city. Many authorities, including Karnataka Lokayukta, visited the spot and registered cases against the contractor and others. A 56-year-old auto driver was killed when a massive wall collapsed due to heavy rain on May 29, exactly after one month of the unfortunate incident that claimed seven lives. Many vehicles were damaged when a portion of HAL compound wall near Ramesh Nagar collapsed in October 2021.

Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) Chief Commissioner instructed officials to remove compound walls and buildings that are in dilapidated condition. Recently, a huge compound wall of Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) Office on Race Course Road came crashing due to heavy rain. Fortunately, no casualties were reported. The debris is yet to be cleared and no effort is made to ensure the remaining portion of the compound wall is safe. Emphasising on the need for regular maintenance of public assets such as compound walls and buildings, Vinod Jacob, a civic activist, said that there have to be stringent fines and legal options for these aberrations. "We need the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) to check this ward wise with ward engineers and ensure strict compliance in the monsoon. We cannot afford to lose any more lives to wall collapses," said Vinod Jacob.

Meanwhile, BCCC Executive Engineer told BM that he has identified around 30 compound walls, including a compound wall of Defence Establishment on Dickenson Road, in a dilapidated condition in Shantinagar and Shivajinagar Assembly constituencies. "We have issued notices to the property owners directing them to remove those walls in dilapidated condition," the executive engineer said.

Seventh seat battle heats up

Nominations for four Rajya Sabha seats and seven Legislative Council seats from Karnataka closed on Monday, with four candidates filing papers for the Upper House and eight for the Council. June 11 is the last date for withdrawal. Voting, if required, will take place on June 18, with counting scheduled for 5 pm the same day.

For the Rajya Sabha polls, Congress has fielded AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge, Pawan Khera and Mansoor Ali Khan, while the BJP has nominated Prof M Nagaraj. All four are set to be elected unopposed. The BJP's choice of Nagaraj ended speculation over a possible return for former Prime Minister HD Deve Gowda and dashed the hopes of former Chief Minister DV Sadananda Gowda and former MP Sumalatha Ambareesh, whose names had also featured in discussions. The real contest is expected in the Legislative Council election. Congress has fielded five candidates, including KPCC president BK Hariprasad and Vinay Karthik as its fifth nominee, while the BJP has nominated Lingaraj Patil and Raghu Kautilya. JD(S), backed by the NDA, has fielded Govindaraju for the crucial seventh seat.

Based on the current strength of the Assembly, Congress is comfortably placed to win four seats and the BJP two, leaving the final seat as a direct contest between Congress nominee Vinay Karthik and JD(S) candidate Govindaraju. With 222 sitting MLAs in the 224-member Assembly, a candidate requires 28 votes to win. Secret preferential voting and the possibility of cross-voting have added an element of uncertainty, with both camps closely watching the votes of three expelled BJP MLAs and independent members. — BMB

Quarries under the pollution hammer

The Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB) has informed the National Green Tribunal (NGT) that quarries and stone-crushing units must comply with environmental guidelines issued by the Central Environment Ministry to curb pollution. The submission follows a citizen's complaint to the NGT over pollution from 53 active quarries and 28 stone-crushing units in Kolar district. The CPCB reiterated that suspended particulate matter from stone-crushing operations, measured between 3 and 10 metres, must remain within the prescribed limit of 600 micrograms per cubic metre. Effluents discharged into inland surface waters must also meet specified standards.

In its report, the CPCB stated that stone-crushing units must obtain Consent to Establish (CTE) and Consent to Operate (CTO) from the concerned State Pollution Control Board. It also recommended the formation of District-Level Committees, headed by District Magistrates or Deputy Commissioners, to conduct regular surprise inspections. The CPCB said its July 2023 guidelines for stone-crushing units mandate measures to curb dust emissions. It added that State Governments can frame rules to prevent illegal mining, transport and storage of minerals. — BMB

Private lands can host sewers, court rules

HIGH COURT

The Karnataka High Court has upheld the constitutional validity of provisions in the Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board (BWSSB) Act, 1964, that allow the civic utility body to lay and maintain sewer lines across private properties without acquiring the land.

Justice Suraj Govindaraj delivered the ruling while partly allowing petitions filed by several landowners who challenged the use of their properties for sewer infrastructure. The petitioners argued that laying sewer lines through their lands infringed on property rights and required formal land acquisition.

Examining Sections 39, 76 and 77 of the BWSSB Act, the court held that these provisions establish a legally valid framework granting the Board a limited right to use land for public utility purposes. The judge noted that the law does not transfer ownership of the land to the BWSSB but merely permits its use for sewer-related infrastructure.

The court observed that the statutory scheme contains safeguards for landowners, including obligations on the BWSSB to minimise damage and provide compensation for any harm caused during the execution and maintenance of sewer works. It stressed that the law does not authorise unrestricted occupation or appropriation of private property.

According to the court, requiring compulsory land acquisition whenever a sewer line passes through private property would severely hamper the implementation of essential public infrastructure projects and could disrupt the development of civic amenities. At the same time, the court emphasised that the validity of the provisions depends on the meaningful enforcement of the safeguards built into the Act. It said compensation must be genuine and proportionate to the actual loss, inconvenience or damage suffered by affected property owners.

The court clarified that BWSSB'S powers under section 77 is only a limited right to use private land and not compulsoru acquistion. Refusing to order removal of sewer lines, the court directed BWSSB to assess and pay compensation for any temporary or permanent damage caused. —BMB

Dowry death case narrows circle of accused

The Karnataka High Court has reaffirmed that individuals who are not related to a husband by blood, marriage or adoption cannot be prosecuted for offences relating to dowry death and cruelty under the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS).

Justice M Nagaprasanna made the observation while partly allowing petitions filed by six accused persons in a dowry death case involving the suicide of a woman within five months of her marriage. The court quashed proceedings against two distant relatives of the husband, holding that they did not fall within the category of "relatives" contemplated under Sections 80 and 85 of the BNS, which correspond to the erstwhile Sections 304B and 498A of the Indian Penal Code.

At the same time, the court declined to interfere with proceedings against the husband, his parents and his brother, finding sufficient material to warrant a trial.

The case concerns a 33-year-old woman who married a software engineer employed in the United States on November 10, 2024. Shortly after the wedding, the husband returned to the US, while the woman joined him there in February 2025.

According to the prosecution, the marriage soon ran into difficulties. The woman allegedly faced sustained mental and physical cruelty and returned to her parental home in Bengaluru on April 19, 2025. A few days later, several members of her husband's family visited her residence in an attempt at reconciliation.

The prosecution alleged that family members humiliated her and questioned her character during the meeting. On April 24, 2025, she died by suicide after leaving behind a note detailing her distress.

The court held that the complaint, death note and charge sheet disclosed sufficient material to proceed against the husband and his immediate family. It also observed that the expression "soon before death" requires a pragmatic interpretation and need not mean immediately before death. The court rejected a settlement attempt, observing that dowry death is a serious, non-compoundable offence affecting society at large. Consequently, it quashed proceedings against accused Nos. 5 and 6 while allowing the case against accused Nos 1 to 4 to continue. —BMB

Engineering colleges caught in approval tug-of-war

Seat planning questioned amid rising concerns over student prospects

Several private engineering colleges face uncertainty after securing approval from the All-India Council for Technical Education (AICTE) but failing to obtain the state government's No Objection Certificate (NOC) for the upcoming academic year.

The issue mainly involves colleges that sharply increase intake in Computer Science and allied courses to meet rising demand while neglecting traditional branches such as Mechanical and Civil Engineering. Institutions fear the Higher Education Department may deny recognition as the government moves to regulate the rapid expansion of Computer Science seats.

The situation follows the implementation of the Dr S Sadagopan Committee report, which recommended a 17% reduction in Computer Science seats, citing poor employability despite rising enrolments. College managements argue that AICTE granted approvals before the report came into effect and that authorities should not apply the new norms retrospectively. —BMB

₹27 lakh raised, thousands of dreams

Students raised more than ₹27 lakh through a two-week crowdfunding campaign conducted in partnership with Greensole Foundation, supporting over 2,800 children in rural Karnataka. The funds provided back-to-school kits with footwear, school bags and mats for underserved children. Students mobilised contributions through calls, messages and posters. "Crowdfunding is a process that involves communication, advocacy and strategic conversations. Students strengthened these skills while helping local children and addressing gaps in access to resources and opportunities," said Andrew Nicholson, Middle School Principal, Canadian International School. —BMB

SAP opens free learning hub access

Software company SAP has announced free access to its SAP Learning Hub Student Edition for students in India. The platform offers learning resources, access to SAP practice systems, expert-led sessions, and two free SAP certification exam attempts. According to the company, the initiative aims to help students gain exposure to enterprise technologies used across sectors such as manufacturing, healthcare, logistics, and finance. Students from engineering, commerce, and management backgrounds can access learning pathways in finance, supply chain, human resources, and customer experience. SAP said the programme will familiarise students with digital systems used by organisations. —BMB

ADVERTORIAL

SAP technology powering global businesses is now accessible to students in India

Bengaluru, India —In college campuses across India, students preparing for placements are familiar with companies like TCS, Infosys, Wipro, and Tech Mahindra. What many do not realize is that behind most of the world's leading businesses lies a common technology: SAP.

To help students gain exposure to this ecosystem, SAP is offering free access to SAP Learning Hub, student edition in India. The platform helps learners certify in enterprise technologies and explore digital skills.

From manufacturing and healthcare to logistics and finance, SAP systems support business operations. Leading IT firms in India also work extensively with SAP technologies.

"Businesses need talent that understands digital operations across functions like finance, supply chain, HR, and customer experience," said Tine Vandenbreeden, Global VP SIX Partner Solution Enablement, SAP.

The platform includes learning resources, expert-led sessions, real SAP practice systems, and two free SAP Certification exam attempts. Students from engineering, commerce, and management streams can also explore SAP Learning Journeys aligned to business roles.

Through this initiative, SAP aims to give students exposure to the systems used inside large organizations.

Harassment of feeders continues in some areas

feeding signs by corporations have gone missing in some areas.

According to Sadhana Hegde, founder of Sahavarthin Animal Welfare Trust, identification of feeding spots should be done based on feeder requests; however, in many cases, boards are being put up without consulting feeders. "Many spots identified by GBA have become black spots with garbage dumped, people urinating, and even vandalism of water bowls. In some places, residents are not allowed to feed despite the spot being a designated one. GBA is providing very limited support to reduce feeder harassment right now," she said.

"Whether feeders feed at designated or at their usual spots in the absence of designated feeding spots, incidents of harassment have increased. We have also written to the GBA Commissioner requesting him to issue a statement clarifying that feeding stray dogs is regulated and not prohibited. Even citizens feeding biscuits to the animals are facing backlash," said Hegde.

Hegde says in her recent meeting with GBA, officials have agreed to designate feeding spots based on requests by feeders.

"This will help in reducing incidents of feeder harassment," added Hegde

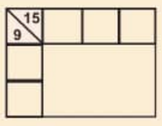
The numbers in the grey squares refer to the sums of the digits that you must fill into the empty spaces directly below or to the right of the grey square containing the number. For instance, in the given example, the 3 boxes horizontally next to 15 must contain 3 digits that add up to 15, whereas for 9, it is the 2 boxes placed vertically under it that must add up to 9. No zeros are used here, only the digits 1 through 9.



Note: A digit cannot appear more than once in any particular digit combination. For instance, in the example, we cannot have the combination of 4+7+4 for 15.

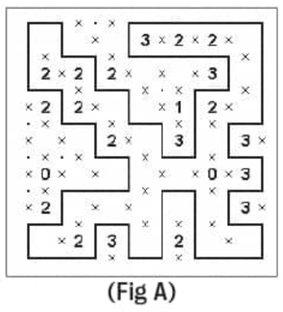
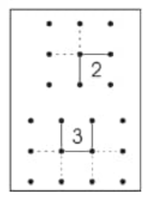
Loop

Rules

» Connect adjacent dots with vertical or horizontal lines, creating a single loop (Fig A). » Crossovers or branches are not allowed (As shown by dotted lines in Fig B). » Numbers in the puzzle indicate the number of lines that should surround it, while empty cells may be surrounded by any number of lines. » You can't draw lines around zeros. » Each puzzle has just one unique solution.



(Fig A)



(Fig B) Not Allowed

How to begin:

Example (Fig A) – Begin with the zero next to 3. Since no lines can be drawn around zero, mark crosses around it, as shown. Now there is a cross in one space around 3. So we know the three lines of 3 can only be drawn in the remaining three spaces. Next, these lines can only be extended in one direction each. Continue, using the same logic.

Hints: Keep eliminating possibilities by marking crosses in spaces between dots where a line isn't possible, i.e., if you have already completed required lines or where a line extension may create a branch or cause a dead-end (Fig B)

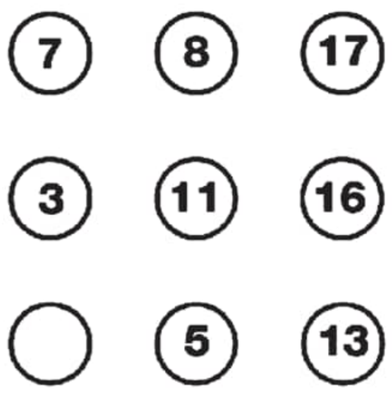
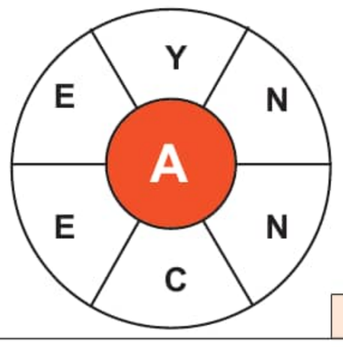
Which number is missing from the last row?



Bull's eye



How many words of four or more letters can you make from the letters shown? Every word must contain the central letter. There should be one seven-letter word. British English Dictionary is used as a reference.

02 Average; 03 Good; 04 Outstanding

SudokuChallenge

	6	7				3	4
		2	6		7	9
1				4				6
2			8	6	1			4
6			5	3	2			7
4				7				9
		5	4		8	6
	3	1				4	7

To solve a Sudoku puzzle, every digit from one to nine must appear in each of the nine vertical columns, in each of the nine horizontal rows and in each of the nine boxes.

Gofigure

Place the four numbers in the first, third, fifth, and seventh boxes and whatever operators you care to use in the second, fourth, and sixth boxes in the correct order to get the answer. Use the numbers only once.

If it's your birthday today

Your natural leadership skills shine, thrusting you into the spotlight for a major community or professional project. Financial rewards follow your hard work, allowing you to invest in home upgrades. In relationships, direct communication prevents assumptions from causing friction. Keep your physical stamina high by prioritising lean proteins and maintaining a consistent, structured daily workout routine.

Aries Mar 21 – Apr 20

Creative ideas flow powerfully through your mind today, making this the perfect time to express yourself confidently. Sharing your vision attracts helpful support and allows exciting plans to move closer toward reality successfully now.

Taurus Apr 21 – May 20

Believing in your natural strengths helps you shine confidently today. Stop comparing yourself unnecessarily and embrace your talents proudly. Showing others your true abilities opens doors for recognition, growth, and greater professional success ahead beautifully.

Gemini May 21 – Jun 21

Relationships thrive today when kindness, balance, and mutual support guide your actions thoughtfully. Show loved ones the same care and attention you hope receiving yourself. Genuine effort strengthens trust and deepens important emotional connections beautifully.

Cancer Jun 22 – July 23

Unexpected professional news brings excitement and fulfilment your way today. Something you've quietly hoped for finally begins unfolding positively. Celebrate your achievements proudly with loved ones because this success reflects your patience and determination beautifully.

Leo Jul 24 – Aug 23

Career ambitions remain important today, though sensitivity toward loved ones matters equally. Avoid being overly critical or emotionally distant while chasing success. Gentle communication and understanding help strengthen relationships and maintain harmony beautifully now.

Virgo Aug 24 – Sep 23

A busy schedule may feel overwhelming today, but thoughtful planning keeps everything manageable successfully. Prioritising tasks carefully helps you stay calm, organized, and productive. Clear structure transforms pressure into accomplishment while protecting your peace beautifully.

Libra Sep 24 – Oct 22

Today encourages extra compassion and emotional understanding toward people close to you. Loved ones may need comfort more than practical advice right now. Gentle support and patience strengthen bonds while helping others feel truly understood.

Scorpio Oct 23 – Nov 22

Your independence and determination become major strengths today while handling important responsibilities confidently alone. Trust your skills completely and focus on delivering your best work. Taking initiative helps your talents receive the recognition they deserve.

Sagittarius Nov 23 – Dec 22

Your ambitions feel incredibly strong today, though patience remains necessary for long-term success. Focus on realistic goals and steady progress rather than rushing ahead impatiently. Everything you desire develops gradually with consistent effort and persistence.

Capricorn Dec 23 – Jan 20

Stress and exhaustion may create uneasy feelings today, reminding you to slow down and rest properly. Sharing responsibilities with others lightens the pressure beautifully. Prioritising your wellbeing now restores balance, clarity, and emotional strength steadily.

Aquarius Jan 21 – Feb 19

Unexpected situations may seem intimidating initially today, yet they also carry exciting possibilities for growth and learning. Keeping an open mind helps you adapt confidently while discovering opportunities that positively shape your future experiences ahead.

Pisces Feb 20 – Mar 20

Quick thinking and efficiency become your greatest advantages today as responsibilities demand fast action and focus. Staying organized and proactive helps your talents stand out clearly. Avoid procrastination and trust your ability to handle everything smoothly.
